introduction

Game day is finally here! One of the greatest aspects food and sports have in common is they never fail to bring us together. Our Game Day cookbook features truly savory recipes centered around eating, drinking and spending time with loved ones while tailgating at home. From quick snacks and sweet bites, to succulent meats and seafood, the following pages will help you hit a home run in the kitchen for the ultimate game day party.

game day recipes

The key to an unforgettable tailgating experience at home is choosing recipes that can be cooked while entertaining your guests, nothing too difficult.

- Before the party takes off, make sure your grill is working properly, and fire it up with charcoal, wood chips, or a propane tank.
- Remember to prep and marinate your meat, mix dips and chop vegetables so that everything is grill-ready before the crowd arrives.
- If your party is outside and the weather is hot, try to stock an outside cooler with plenty of ice and drinks.
- While grilled meat and seafood may be your guests' favorite, it is always a good idea to have some vegetarian and vegan options, such as pizzas or veggie kabobs.
- Set up a viewing spot for watching the game, a social space where guests can go and chat, and a food area to place your dishes.
- Check that your TV and speakers are functioning correctly, and if hosting outside, move a TV to the backyard or to your garage.

- To make your game day party extra-special, you can use embossed cups, or use any old pennants, banners or tickets from games you have gone to, to decorate the table. And if you want to go really big, you can switch up your blankets and pillows for something more spirited.

All of the recipes included in this cookbook are aimed at anyone, at any culinary skill level, wishing to create mouth-watering game day feasts any day of the week, year-round! And what's more: each recipe offers easy-to-follow, step-by-step instructions to guarantee you win over your favorite crowd.
